Other 2009 Academy Awards

Gomes Awarded 2009 Magrit F. Schoenfeld and Hanns Martin W. Schoenfeld Scholarship

It is a great pleasure as Academy president to announce the 2009 recipient of the Magrit F. Schoenfeld and Hanns Martin W. Schoenfeld Scholarship in Accounting History. This award has been generously endowed by Hanns Martin Schoenfeld and recognises a young scholar in accounting history. The members of the Scholarship committee were Professors Christopher Napier and Richard Fleischman, co-editors of the Accounting Historians Journal, and Professor Hanns Martin Schoenfeld, H.T. Scovill professor emeritus of accounting at the University of Illinois. I served as committee chairperson. We were truly impressed by the quality and quantity of applicants and the interest in accounting-history research which they represented. The committee deliberated at length before making a unanimous decision to award the 2009 Scholarship to Professor Delfina Gomes, Assistant Professor at the University of Braga, for her proposal entitled "Accounting for the Public Sector". Her research program examines accounting change in the Portuguese public sector from the 17th century to the present. Please join me in offering Delfina our hearty congratulations on this award and for the recognition that it represents. We trust that the award and funding will enable her to further her research program and bring her research to the attention of scholars around the globe.

counting Profession". The award is given to an accounting faculty member who holds a full-time appointment and who received his/her masters/doctorate within seven years previous to the date of submission. Congratulations, Jim!

I would like to extend also my thanks to the chairman of the selection committee, Professor Lee D. Parker (University of South Australia), and to committee members, Mark Nikitin (Université d'Orléans), Richard K. Fleischman (John Carroll University), David Oldroyd (University of Newcastle upon Tyne), Dick Edwards (Cardiff Business School), for their time and efforts to adjudicate this important award

Bisman and Lippman Awarded Innovation in Accounting History Education Award 2009

The awarding committee are pleased to announce that the 2009 prize for Innovation in Accounting History Education has been awarded to Jane Bisman and Ellen J. Lippman jointly. It is unusual to receive two such excellent submissions in the one year, both of which were supported by papers published in the June 2009 issue of the Accounting Historians Journal, and the committee members were unable to decide between them.

Bisman's submission was based around a postgraduate course in accounting history education, offered by Charles Sturt University in Australia. The committee were impressed by the careful formulation of teaching objectives and the development of course material to meet them, and by the rationale for accounting history education articulated in the AHJ article.

Lippman's submission comprised a case study relating to the exploitation of slave labor by the Nazis and designed to encourage students to consider the ethical responsibilities of accountants for the information they prepare. The committee was impressed by the innovative nature of the case which raises a host of issues regarding the perceived objectivity of accounting numbers.
